MISCELLANEOUS.

I have had occasion to use your Black Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.

J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cured by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured. It is possible to cure it. Black Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Hogs gain flesh, and hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

FOR LOVE
OF SHORTY

By FREDERICK WHITE

Copyright, 1902, by McCreth's

Newspaper Syndicate

Maggie Dolan's first dream of love was inspired by Shorty McGovern.
He had danced with her three times at the ball of the Happy Friends' association and had escorted her home afterward. Unfortunately for her peace of mind, Maggie had not inspired Shorty with anything in particular.

He was good natured, and had danced with her because she did not seem to have many partners.

He walked to dance the last waltz they happened to dance the last waltz together. Then he forgot all about it, but Maggie did not.

Had she known Shorty's profession —he was a burglar—she would have had nothing to do with him. But she only knew that he was what she considered handsome and that he talked most attractively about books.

She was young, very young, and no man or boy had ever paid her so much attention before.

Being afflicted with an imagination, she gave herself up to dreams in which Shorty was always the predominant figure. On her way to and from the factory she was continually on the lookout for him, and every evening she surprised her mother by putting on her best dress in the hope that he might come to see her. But Shorty never came.

He had other business on hand, if not more attractive at least more remunerative, so Maggie looked and waited in vain.

Shorty had just pulled off a good thing, so good that the police were almost as much interested as the victims of the robbery, and that meant trouble.

Shorty realized this and resented it because it interfered with his reading.

He always read voraciously—between times—and, with the wherewithal for six months' comfort on hand, he hated to be disturbed. He knew, in that mysterious way by which police news travels to those most interested, that he was under suspicion and, much against his inclinations, he was preparing to leave town until the atmosphere should clear.

In the meanwhile Maggie had become almost desperate. In her primitive way she was very much in love, and to see Shorty again was her one thought, day and night. Her fancy wove a glamour about him that even Shorty himself would have repudiated with scorn had he known.

Then came the arrest, for the powers had been too much for him at last.

Maggie saw it in the papers, and a picture of her hero brought the shock home to her with sickening directness.

She was dazed, stunned, hopeless, but still in love. Without saying anything to her mother she visited Shorty in the city prison.

Shorty was very much surprised, but appreciated the attention, although the girl's grief and disappointment in him (she had impulsively told more than she should) annoyed him.

Though more or less callous in regard to the right or wrong of his engaging, he would have welcomed respectability if he could have afforded it, but now it was too late, and in his heart he resented this too. The first visit led to others, and in the devotion of the girl Shorty saw a gleam of hope.

He was not entirely selfish in this matter. If he escaped his term in prison, he would do the right thing by her.

He would take her away with him and marry her, but for some reason or other he never told the girl this.

So it was that for pure love of him Maggie agreed to help him establish an alibi, although she knew from his own lips that he was guilty.

With the aid of a lawyer, who asked no embarrassing questions, they concocted the defense. On the day of the trial Maggie went to the stand. Pale of face, but exalted in spirit, she swore that on the night of the robbery Shorty had been with her, in her home, until 1 o'clock.

Fortunately for the success of this story, Maggie's mother could not deny it, for she had spent that night away from home nursing a sick friend.

Broken hearted at the smirching of the good name of Dolan, she asserted her belief that her daughter was bewitched and, shaking her fist at Shorty, threatened vengeance until suppressed by the court.

Her evident animus against the prisoner had an effect directly opposite from that which she had hoped to produce. It strengthened his alibi materially, and much to the disgust of the police Shorty was acquitted.

When the dwellers of the tenements wish to be alone and undisturbed, they seek the comparative privacy of a park bench. On the evening of his release Shorty met the girl by appointment, and together they threaded their way through the crowded streets to one of the city's breathing spaces.

Shorty, pale and worn and somewhat chastened in spirit by his enforced seclusion, breathed the air of liberty with ever growing delight.

It was good to be his own boss again, and with the realization came another thought—he was some one else's boss too. His hand touched the arm of the girl at his side, and a thrill of conscious power ran through him.

She belonged to him. She had done too much and gone too far to quit now.
She must look to him and to no one else in the future.

When he first understood that he was free, his heart had gone out to the girl in a tender pity that left him a suppliant at her feet.

But now, a few hours later, this was forgotten. Something in his lawless nature crowded out all sense of gratitude and left only the selfish pride of man in his conquest.

They entered the park and sat down upon a bench partly sheltered from passing eyes by a bush.

Maggie's face looked very white in the growing dusk, and her eyes were fixed on the ground.

Shorty shifted about uneasily, and then, in lieu of anything better, he put his arm about her shoulders.

"Vivia's the matter," said Shorty.
"You're not afraid of me, are you?"

"No," said the girl, "I'm more afraid of myself."

This was beyond Shorty's comprehension. "You're what?" he asked roughly.

"Oh, Shorty," cried the girl earnestly, "can't you understand that it's all eyes, nose and we must not see each other any more?"

"What d'ye mean?" he demanded.

"Don't you know I'm going to take you away tomorrow. I got some money left, and," he added magnanimously, "we can get married before we go if you want to."

Maggie laid her head upon the top rail of the bench and began to cry.

"I can't do it. I won't do it," she sobbed. "You must go away—alone."

Shorty did not know what to make of this. What did the girl want if she did not want him? Why had she visited him in the prison, worked for him, lied for him, if she did not want him?

"Aw, come off," he said gently.

"What do you want, anyhow?"

"This," said the girl, springing to her feet and dashing the tears from her eyes. "I want you to go away where I will never see you again. What I did I did because I loved you, and I am glad of it—glad that I lied for you and got you off."

Shorty looked at her in wonder. He could not understand this girl. There was something in her beyond his comprehension.

His confidence in himself was weakening.

"You better come with me, Maggie," he said. "I'll promise to be good to you."

"It isn't that," went on the girl. "I told you I was not afraid of anything but myself. I know what you are—a thief, and I know what I am—a liar, and I know what we both ought to be,
and I can't do it. We could never be happy or good and—oh, Shorty! I'll always think of you as the man that night at home before I knew, and——go away now or I can't stand it."

Shorty began to realize something of the tumult in the girl's heart.

He felt rather than understood her struggle for her idea.

He knew that should he take her in his arms even now she would not be able to resist him.

Something of her innate desire for what was good and true stole over him, and to his everlasting credit he did not resist it.

"I guess you're right, Maggie," he said brokenly. "I thought we had gone away and been happy together, but—I guess you're right."

There was a world of gratitude in her eyes as she raised them to him, and his own eyes grew misty.

"Goodby," he said.

She placed her hand in his, and they stood there for a moment, neither daring to say a word. Then he turned and walked swiftly away.

She saw him for a moment in the glare of the electric light, and then he disappeared in the shadows beyond.

Half an hour later there was a knock at Mrs. Dolan's door. She wiped her eyes and opened it eagerly.

"Mother," said Maggie, "can I come home?"

Shadow Superstitions.

Our proverb, "Devil catch the first-most," is based on one of the curious shadow legends. According to the fable, the devil had a regular school at Toledo, Spain. Commencement was inaugurated by the graduating class running through a long subterranean hall. The devil hid at a place known only to himself, and if he "caught the hindmost" he ever after claimed him or her as his special property. Some times the shadow, and the persons thus deprived of their "second self" were supposed to make the best of their astrolagical and magicians.

Nearly all East Indian tribes as well as the Malaysians and several African tribes believe that if a man walks along the south bank of a river casting his shadow across the water a crocodile will seize it and thus draw the owner to certain death.

Several writers, like among the rest, say that the Zulus have a superstition similar to that of the old Babylonians—viz, that a dead body has no shadow. The Medes and the Klumaths of Oregon formerly refused to have their pictures taken for fear that the process would take away their shadows. In the Arabian folk tale the "witehaddo," or "infernal Saboteur," was celebrated only by witches' shadows.

Hitch Your Wagon to a Star.

A student of the horse thus explains where Emerson's epigram, "Hitch your wagon to a star," originated: Long before the war there was a famous trotting stallion of the name of American Star, belonging to one Seely, American Star sired horses scattered all through New England and New York, for they were the best roadsters in the country, and every farmer must have one. It soon became well understood that in order not to lose the respect of the community one must drive nothing else. Later it became a subject of banter and sport. "Why don't you hitch your wagon to a star?" Unquestion-ably Emerson many a time had heard the remark, and in his lecture on "American Civilization" at the Smithsonian Institution in 1862 he rung it in for the first time, advising mankind in general to aim high and "Hitch your wagon to a star," thus converting a common incident into a figurative allusion.

Queer African Mask.

Grotesque masks are worn in many parts of Africa during dances and religious ceremonies. The reason is because a symbolic significance is attached to them and they are especially supposed to possess the power of preserving those who wear them from the influence of evil spirits.

The masks are generally made of wood, and some are carved with rare skill. When a chief or the head of a family dies, he leaves his mask to his successor, and the latter is bound to wear it. In every village there is an artist who repairs masks and occasionally makes a few new ones, and it is said that no one does a more thriving business.

Ethnologists have been trying to find out the exact time when these masks first came into use, but all they have learned as yet is that they have been popular in Africa for many centuries.

Sonnambulism.

Sonnambulism? What is it? Did you ever walk in your sleep? If so, you know just about as much about this strange use of the faculties and senses of the mind and the body as does the average physician. Sonnambulism has been a mystery and a matter of discussion to the medical profession since the days of the ancients. They knew as well as we all now know that there is such a thing as sonnambulism or walking in the sleep. They attempted to explain it just as modern medicine has been endeavoring to explain it ever since. But as it was then so it is now.
There are so many explanations that even the physician is puzzled to decide which to accept.

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realize as he romps with the child what years of wily suffering must be set against the baby's laughter.
Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too high for most mothers.

Getting Rich in Mining.

Two brothers, Chuck and Ferdinand, started out to get rich in the mining business. Chuck went to the mountains and tried to find gold. He prospected for years, leading a life of hardships and privations. He never discovered any gold and was finally killed in a snowslide. Ferdinand organized stock companies to develop "sure things" mines, in which there was no gold. He was superintendent of the Sunday school and induced way up church people to endorse his schemes.
The sale of stocks in gold mining companies made him a very rich man, and he presented the city with a water fountain and was voted a public benefactor. It is not always necessary to mine gold in order to get it.—Acheson

Let Us Celebrate the Fourth on the Plaza.

The subject of celebrating the Fourth of July on the Sonoma Plaza came up for discussion in the Woman's Club the other day, and several of the members, it is said, objected to holding a celebration in town and favored a picnic or something of that sort outside the city limits. This was all wrong. The celebration, if it be a public one, ought to be held, if held at all, on our Plaza. The business interests of the town and the comfort of our guests on that day should be taken into consideration in a matter of this kind. Does San Francisco, Petaluma, Santa Rosa or any other civilized town for that matter hold their celebrations, fetes or carnivals in the bushes? By no means. On the contrary, every public celebration or fiesta that has ever taken place in those progressive cities has had, for its ostensible purpose the bringing of crowds of visitors into their midst to advertise their towns and enrich their people, and not for the purpose keeping visitors away and making their people poorer. Of course those of our residents who choose to go out of town on the Fourth and have a nice little celebration all by themselves are privileged to do so. That is a private matter and no affair of ours. But when it comes to a public celebration it is quite a different thing. By all means let us celebrate on the Plaza.

THE late frost has considerably cut down the fruit crop in this valley and the yield will not be up to the average. Prices, however, will be more than offset by the diminished yield as reports from all parts of the State agree that the frost was general and did much more damage to fruit elsewhere than it did in this valley, and the crop will not only be short in the Eastern States but all over California as well.

CRIME IS RECALLED

Package Containing Fifteen Counterfeit Dollars Found in Outhouse.

The discovery by a laborer a day or two ago of a newspaper parcel containing fifteen counterfeit dollars in a recess in an outhouse of the Toscano Hotel, Santa Rosa, recalls the sentencing of a barber familiarly known there as "Angel" to the State's prison for passing spurious dollars in Petaluma some time ago.

Angel formerly roomed at the hotel and the counterfeit dollars he passed were wrapped in similar paper parcels to the one discovered in the outhouse. The dollars were undoubtedly part of the number the man in prison was passing out and he probably hid them in the place where they were found.

The coins were immediately turned over to Sheriff Frank Grace. They are pretty good imitations, and were "coined" in the years 1888 and 1889, which were the dates on the other coins found in his possession. Angel will soon have served his time in jail.—Press Democrat.

In Aid St. Francis' Church.

A grand entertainment and social in aid of St. Francis' Church will be held in Union Hall, this evening. The entertainments of St. Francis' parish are always delightful affairs and this one will be no exception. The program will be made up of the best local and San Francisco talent. Under the direction of J. C. O'Donnell, the prince of comedians, a comic opera, in one act, entitled "Sonoma Upside Down," will be presented. The genial "Alphonse" and "Gaston" of Examiner fame will appear. They will perform some clever antics and afford much amusement. The evening's entertainment will conclude with a social hop, at which refreshments will be served. Admission will be fifty cents.

Stops the Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure. No pay. Price 25 cents.

Danger of Colds and Grip.

The greatest danger from colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by F. Duhring.

THOSE GRAND JURY INDICTMENTS.

Defendants Will Enter Their Pleas Next Thursday.

Four well-known and prominent citizens of Santa Rosa, ex-District Attorney Webber, County Physician Shearer, D. W. Cozard and C. H. Holmes Jr., who were recently indicted by the Grand Jury, were arraigned before Judge Burnett last Monday.

The cases were continued until next Thursday, at which time all of the Grand Jurors who returned the indictments will be summoned to appear and testify as to their prejudice against the defendants. The indictments against Messrs. Webber and Shearer are not taken very seriously by those having a knowledge of the alleged charges against them and it is thought both cases will be dismissed.

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

SONOMA VALLEY ABROAD.

Its Praises are Now Being Sung in the Magazines.

Sonoma Valley's matchless climate and noted health giving mineral springs are becoming noted far and wide and their praises are being sung by many strangers who have visited our valley for health and recreation. The magazines have also taken up the refrain, with the result that Sonoma Valley is being talked about and written up as it never was before. The day was when the Index-Tribune was the only publication to sound its praises. Times are different now. The other day in glancing over the California Magazine for April we ran across a well-written article under the caption of "Some of California's Famous Resorts." The writer after paying a glowing tribute to California's climate and its fine summer resorts, has this to say about one of the attractive spots of Sonoma Valley; and they are all attractive: "Agua Caliente Springs, with its matchless climate, healing waters and magnificent scenery is a most delightful suburb of San Francisco. It is situated in the heart of the Sonoma Valley, and its close proximity to the city renders it readily accessible. The climate is of that delightful softness so beneficial to those affected with asthmatic or throat troubles. The heat of the summer is not excessive, being tempered by the fine mountain air that is continually coursing through the valley. The evenings are always pleasantly cool and the nights seem truly made for tired nature's restorer, 'balmy sleep.' Flowers bloom the year round. The hotel itself has much of historic value about it. The old Mexican adobe part, built early in the last century, is well preserved. To this has been added a more commodious building, thus linking the Spanish and Mexican part to the American present. During the Mexican war this old part of the hotel served as the headquarters of Grant, Sherman, Hooker and others. This of course was before they became famous generals. The large room in which they planned war is now the most comfortable and sleep inducing room in the hotel. After the war General Hooker owned and lived a number of years on the beautiful farm adjoining the hotel, Hooker Falls and Canyon being named after him."

These noted springs are now the property of Mr. and Mrs. Richards, who have made many costly improvements the past year.

HOW TO BECOME BEAUTIFUL

To Perfect Your Figure.

A famous physician, in speaking of health, beauty, and a good figure, said:

"In my experience many American women have not the strength to take up outdoor sports, many lack the inclination for active physical exertion, household cares or office work—they feel languid, tired and worn-out by the weaknesses so common to their sex. Some women have household duties which keep them shut up at home. For all such persons I should advise a few simple daily exercises, with light dumbbells, devoting only ten minutes of the day to it at first, and gradually increasing it until they find that their whole being is stimulated and strengthened by it. If the young girl—or the matron—is troubled at certain periods with irregularity, weakening drains, and backache—perhaps faint and dizzy spells—then she should take something medicinally to correct these faults. Nothing could be better than a prescription which Dr. R. V. Pierce used in his large practice for many years, in the diseases of women. This 'Favorite Prescription' of Dr. Pierce has had an immense sale for the past thirty-six years, because of its uniform success in the cure of women's diseases, and because of the many thousands of women who have attested to its merit. Being made entirely of extracts of roots and herbs, without alcohol, it is perfectly harmless to the most delicate system, and the best ready-to-hand remedy in the market."

"To insure perfect health, every tissue, bone, nerve, tendon, or muscle should take from the blood certain materials for its nourishment and growth. Every organ must have its period of activity and of rest, so as to circulate the vital fluid in a proper manner to nourish every part. This is why I believe in advising every woman to take gentle exercise out of doors or indoors. If the functions are not regular or the pains are severe then she should at once use a reliable remedy."

Mrs. A. BELYEA, of Rockland, New Brunswick, said:

"I suffered more than a year from nervousness and functional derangement. Had pains in the left side of abdomen all the time. Some days could hardly get around. Kept my bed about half the time. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and got his advice for which I have ever been thankful. I began taking 'Favorite Prescription' right away as he advised. It makes me sleep well at night which I never did before, and I feel rested. Can truthfully say Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has cured me."

Mrs. O. O. SCRIPTURE, of Prescott, Arizona, said:

"Words cannot express how grateful I am for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for me. For nearly ten years I was a great sufferer with ulceration and sickness peculiar to women. I doctored for several years; got no better until I began taking the 'Prescription.' Now I can stand on my feet and work hard all day. I feel that life is worth living, and shall always recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines."

ADVICE TO MARRIED WOMEN. You should have a good medical book that tells you about the womanly system; treats fully of Physiology and Anatomy; wifehood and motherhood. Read Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advisor. It contains over 1000 pages. A copy, paper-covered, may be obtained absolutely free by sending 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing ONLY. If French cloth binding is desired, send for stamps extra (31 cents in all), to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, 603 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

RAILROAD ACTIVITY.

The Santa Fe Heading this Way from Eureka.

That the Santa Fe is heading this way and that its iron horse will be tooting in this valley ere long hardly admits of a doubt in the minds of those posted in railway affairs in this State. The Santa Fe's real objective point on this side of the bay, however, is a mystery known only to the high officials of that road. It may bridge the straits of Carquinez at the upper arm of San Pablo Bay to reach Point Richmond, where it has extensive machine shops, or it may seek to reach the San Francisco shore of the bay with a big ferry service from Tiburon or Belvedere. But of this nothing is certain at this time.

It has already been officially announced by the Santa Fe that a contract is to be let next month for the construction of ten miles of road on its recently acquired property in Humboldt county.

W. A. Bissell, Assistant Traffic Manager of the Santa Fe, has recently given the following to the newspapers for publication. He said: "We bought the Eel River and Eureka Railroad and it is still known by that name. It is a line 32 miles long, extending from Arcata, about nine miles northward from Eureka, southward through Eureka, Field's Landing, Singley's and Fortuna to Alton, where it turns further inland to the eastward, but at Alton it forms a junction with the Pacific Lumber Company's railroad, a line of about fifteen miles, extending southward to Pepperwood on the north bank of Eel river. The whole available line from Eureka to Pepperwood is about 39 miles, the whole lower section being through a heavy timber region. We mean to extend the line from Pepperwood, the present southern terminal, for a distance of ten miles along Eel River. It is a wild, rugged country, and the work of building a railroad will be necessarily slow."

The contract for the construction of the extension below Pepperwood will be let May 1st, and the work will be begun as soon thereafter as possible."

The following report was made public Wednesday by President E. P. Ripley, of the Santa Fe, who has purchased 10,000 tons of sixty-five pound rails in Germany for delivery at San Francisco next July. The order was placed in the foreign market owing to the inability of the American mills to make delivery within a reasonable period of time, so overcrowded are they with orders.

Most of the rails are for the Santa Fe line in Humboldt county.

It is the intention of the Santa Fe to rush work in that country and complete by the end of the year sixty miles of road. By this means the company will have a line of road from Eureka south to the Mendocino county line, a distance of ninety-three miles.

Speculation is rife as to the probable route which the construction will pursue south of the Mendocino county line.

Stray Deerhound.

A large brindle-colored deerhound is now in possession of the editor of this paper awaiting an owner. The dog in question, a noble animal, made his appearance in town late Tuesday night. A long, heavy chain attached to a leather collar around the hound's neck, became wedged in between the planks of the rustic bridge spanning the creek opposite the Cleve residence and held him as if in a vice. Here he remained a prisoner all night. In his efforts to release himself he kept up a deep baying throughout the night that broke the slumber of almost every resident in the near vicinity. The animal was located and released at the break of day by an early riser, and when he regained his freedom his joy was unbounded and almost human in expression. Whom does this dog belong to?

Grove of Lady Druids.

Mrs. Jennie S. Clark of San Francisco has been in town the past week endeavoring to organize a grove of lady Druids. So far she has met with much encouragement and has already secured quite a number of names for charter members.

Mrs. Clark left yesterday for her home in the city but will return to Sonoma in a day or two and again take up her labors.

Basalt Blocks for Oakland

Forty thousand basalt blocks are being shipped from the Schocken quarries to Oakland to fill a street paving contract with that city. The blocks are loaded on box cars of the Southern Pacific Company at this place and switched off at Schellville station for transit to Oakland via Napa Junction.

GLEN ELLEN

By Chapple.

Dr. C. C. O'Donnell's brick yard is going right ahead at a lively pace. Mrs. Jerome Clark of Colorado is visiting her brother in law Mr. Fred Clark in Graham Canyon.

Mr. Dave Reese, a cattle king of Wyoming, is visiting this town and is registered at the Cottage Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are rusticated in this place. Mr. Mitchell is a produce merchant of the metropolis.

L. Byersdoff, President of the National Detective Agency of San Francisco, is making his headquarters here for a short time.

The Riverside Hotel is receiving its finishing touches and will be opened with a grand flourish of trumpets on the first of May.

Supervisor Blair Hart has been over the roads in this vicinity inspecting their condition preparatory to receiving their showers of oil. Everything is satisfactory.

This burg is full of visitors engaging accommodations and camping places for the coming summer. This promises to be the banner season for visitors and pleasure-seekers.

Mrs. L. E. Coppin of Berkeley, who formerly resided here, is now on a business trip to this burg. Her home is with her daughter Mrs. Harrison, the former landlady of the Mervyn Hotel.

Mrs. Skahan is in San Francisco getting a big stock of groceries. This enterprising woman is forging right along. Her business is immense. She does not have to wait for the campers.

J. N. Armeur, who has been employed at the California Home the past four years, has now a position with the Board of Health at San Francisco. He is at present visiting friends here and says there is no place like Glen Ellen to him.

E. C. Skahan's new building is nearly completed. It is but a little over a week since the foundation was laid. Who can beat that? When a Glen Ellenite starts to do anything he pushes it along with a rush. No grass grows under Mr. Skahan's feet.

The genial Deputy County Assessor Mont Akers has been in town sizing up what is left after the winter's seige. He is always a welcome visitor here—jolly, cordial and gentlemanly. Hope he will hold this position as long as he lives. It would be hard to find another so capable and competent.

The Sonoma boys came up last Sunday for a game of base ball. The Glen Ellen boys were too modest to defeat their visitors. The boys gave them a lively turn and everything passed off pleasantly. Come again—but we will not promise to give you the second victory.

Glen Ellen, April 23, 1903.

Boring for Artesian Water.

S. Schocken, who has the contract for sinking several seven-inch artesian wells on Chas. H. Ohm's place near Agua Caliente, reports that he is now down 160 feet on the first of the series of the flowing wells which he expects to develop on the place.

Mr. Schocken is also boring a seven-inch well for Dr. O'Donnell's brickyard in Glen Ellen. This well has already reached a depth of 175 feet and will be bored to a depth of 300 feet.

The Sonoma Boys Won.

The game of base-ball played in Glen Ellen last Sunday between the members of the Sonoma Base Ball Club and the Glen Ellen Nine, was easily won by the Sonoma boys.

The score stood at the finish of the game 24 to 10 in favor of the latter. The duration of the game was two hours. A return game between the rival teams will take place on Quattroni's base-ball grounds to-morrow afternoon.

All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system. Pimples, boils, eczema and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, dull headaches and many other troubles are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove all humors, overcome all their effects, strengthen, tone and invigorate the whole system.

"I had salt rheum on my hands so that I could not work. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it drove out the humor. I continued its use till the sores disappeared." MRS. IRA O. BROWN, Rumford Falls, Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.
